Enrolment Call for "Meat Safety Assurance Systems (MSAS) Phd School"

Article 1
General Directions

Pursuant Decree n. 270 22/10/2004 of the Ministry of Education, University and Research, the School of Advanced Studies on Food and Nutrition activates "Meat Safety Assurance Systems (MSAS) Phd School" for the year 2023. The PhD School will last a total of 40 hours and it will be held in presence at the Centro Santa Elisabetta - Campus of the University of Parma, from 5 to 8 September 2023.

The PhD School is divided into 14 hours of warm up, individual study, 18 hours of frontal teaching and 8 hours of educational visits.

Lessons will be held in English and at the end of the project an attendance certificate will be issued.

The PhD School is part of a project funded by the Emilia-Romagna Region (resolution of the Regional Council n. 1625 of 18/10/2021), which provides funds to University of Parma in relation to "Emilia Romagna Food Science Advanced Doctoral Training Programme" created by the School of Advanced Studies on Food and Nutrition.

The PhD School aims to provide participants with skills, knowledge, tools and strategies necessary to be able to face, at the supply chain level, the challenges (food safety, animal welfare and health) that the management of the meat production pose both to the Competent Authorities and to the Operator of the Food Industry. The management of these challenges requires future operators and inspectors (controllers) to have ever more advanced tools and skills than traditional ones (inspection, microbiological analysis), including notions of data analysis and epidemiology. Ample space will be given to innovative supply chain solutions for the management of the main dangers associated with the consumption of meat.

Further information concerning objectives, professional scenarios, educational programme may be found in the relative section on the website https://phooder.unipr.it/schools/universita-di-parma/food-authenticity-phd-excellence-academy/36/

Attendance is mandatory.

Article 2
Admission Requirements

The School is thought for students attending PhD courses, in all areas related to food and veterinary medicine, from all over the world.

If not English mother tongue, to all participants is recommended a minimum knowledge of English (B2 level). This factor will be taken into account during selection.

There are 20 places available. The PhD School will be activated in the event of reaching minimum 10 participants.

Article 3
Selection Admission and Documents Submission

Enrolment for the selection will start on 4 May 2023 and will remain open until 12 a.m. (Italian time) of 25 June 2023. Access the PhD School website https://phooder.unipr.it/ and:

a) insert the required information
b) upload the following documents:
